ABOUT “A PURE LAND”

She was born in “a pure land”- buddhist family & was grown up in an ancient town of Kyoto, Japan. After 13 years of living in Europe, she found her musical inspiration in the calm environment of hometown Kyoto in which her sense of cultural identity permanently formed from. She says “it is crucial for me to maintain originality & a creative mind to express myself in the music. The process of making this album was so therapeutic.” Without destroying her own style, she blended traditional Japanese concepts into the 1st full album in a bit more untraditional way. In fact, you will be hearing that the Japanese pentatonic scales are floating freely, & the sound-samples, which were taken by herself in Japan, are coloring up the album in refreshing style.
